

Across

3. mistakes in the programming language's keywords or control structures
 6. Translates source code to machine code in one operation.
 7. A general purpose high level language.
 10. result in program crashing
 13. a range of test data is entered into the program to make sure the output is as expected
 15. A high level language used for business programs.
 16. When you give a variable a new value

Down

1. A detailed description of the program as a structured diagram or pseudocode.

2. Usually it will match up to a sub-problem which has been identified in the top-down process.
 4. A detailed study of the problem which produces a clear description of it.
 5. provides all the info needed to run the program
 8. Part of a program which will return a value.
 9. Source code can be compiled to run on different platforms.
 11. Code written using meaningful variable and procedure names
 12. Code which is written as a series of sub programs which can be tested independently
 14. Checking the specified inputs and outputs of the program against those predicted in the design.