

Across

- 1. Characters or symbols displayed on the screen.
- 2. Type of data, either bit-mapped or vector. Created using a graphics package or from a clip art library.
- 7. This is the presentation of information by a computer system using graphics, animation, sound and text.
- 10. This is a program which leads the user step by step through the creation of a document.
- 12. A series of pages created in a presentation package which includes sound, video, graphics and text.
- 14. Images may be imported from a digital video camera and edited using a suitable application.

Down

- 1. This is a ready-made blank document, with placeholders for items like text and graphics.

- 3. Type of data made up of music or sound produced by a computer.
- 4. This may be added to the presentation using a microphone or a sound library.
- 5. This is the name given to the effect shown on the screen when moving between slides.
- 6. Type of data - movies.
- 8. When slides are displayed one after the other, in the order they were created.
- 9. The way in which elements of a presentation may be programmed to move around the screen.
- 10. A collection of information held in multimedia form on the Internet.
- 11. Another name for a presentation.
- 13. A sequence of video images.